

RCIA INFORMATION SHEET

We welcome you, as you begin the process of looking at the Roman Catholic Church. We will do all that we can to help you on this Faith journey. The first thing we ask of you is that you complete this questionnaire.

This questionnaire is a useful tool so that we may serve you better and get to know you and your particular situation. It may seem to be long but each question is asked for a particular purpose, although that purpose may not apply to you specifically.

Please answer all questions that apply to you as fully as possible. The questions that do not apply to you should be left blank. For the Yes/no questions please circle the correct answer. If there are any questions that you do not understand or are uncomfortable with, you may leave them blank and these can be discussed with either Father or the RCIA director.

Your answers will be treated as confidential and will only be seen by the RCIA director and the priest.

After you complete this questionnaire, an appointment will be set up for you with either the priest or the RCIA director.

May God bless you and be with you as you journey with us.

RCIA Information Sheet

An introduction to and explanation

Almost everyone who has worked with the RCIA, has ended up being put into an awkward situation by finding out at the last minute that the reception of a given catechumenate is either not possible or is going to entail some very difficult decisions that should not be made in a rushed manner. The examples are legion, but I will recount but two. One. At the retreat before the Rite of Acceptance, the director finds out that Suzy Q. is living with her boyfriend. Two. Ten days before Easter, Father finds out that that Suzy Q.'s husband was previously married to a Roman Catholic. The purpose of this questionnaire is to avoid these last minute surprises and to enable us to deal with these problems in a proper, pastoral way.

These questions have been developed by looking at all the horror stories I have heard from priests and then asking myself: How could someone have found out about this problem sooner? What question(s) should have been asked at the start of the RCIA process?

There are a number of questions, which are designed to identify problems: moral, marriage, and pastoral. I will now identify those questions which should raise a warning flag for you so that the candidate can be properly pastored.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The only problematic question in this section is where we ask:
"Single, Married, Widow/widower, Divorced, Separated, Common-Law"

The answer Divorced or Separated will entail both pastoring and the Marriage Tribunal.

The answer Common-law (living together) will entail morality and pastoring.

RELIGIOUS HISTORY

If the answer to #2 (denomination of Baptism) is not a main line Christian Church, it must be determined if we accept the Baptism as valid.

If no certificate is available, the proof of the Baptism must be worked out.

Questions 3, 4, 5 and 6 are merely to help situate the condition of a Baptized Catholic who is returning to the Faith, or who was never fully instructed.

MARRIAGE HISTORY

This page is important, as the status of the marriage of the inquirer is so very important. If the Church cannot recognize the marriage of the Inquirer, it makes the reception into the Church a very difficult pastoral and moral question. This page is where most of the truly difficult problems will come to light.

Questions 5 and 6 are the ones that raise the warning flag: If the answer to either question is yes, you must proceed very carefully and with caution. There is no doubt that the marriage tribunal will need to become involved. If the previous spouses are deceased, the issue can be dealt with very easily.

If the answer to # 5 and/or 6 is yes, you must make sure that you know of all previous marriages. All the questions under 5 or 6 must be answered for each marriage. If there are multiple marriages it makes the situation even more difficult.
